NAKASENDO TRAIL – Tsumago & Magome, Ochiai, and Nakatsugawa

MAGOME-JUKU POST TOWN

Magome-juku was once the prosperous 43rd post along the historic Nakasendo Trail which connected Kyoto and Tokyo. Post towns like Tsumago, Magome, Ochiai, and Nakatsugawa have been brought back to their Edo Period grandeur. Start your journey by taking a bus from Nakatsugawa Station to admire Magome's unique hillside positioning which provides visitors with an astounding view of the Nakatsugawa landscape. Check out the Magome Waterwheel to set your location perfect for a photogenic looking of it. Then enjoy your stroll along the street while stopping by the Toson Memorial Museum or a hipster coffee shop. Finally at the end of your trek to the top of Magome Hill, you will be rewarded with an astounding view of Magome and the Mt. Ena mountain range. The 8 km hiking trail will lead you to the Tsumago-juku to feel the historical and rural Japan.

Magome-juku is reachable either by bus or on foot. If you take a bus at JR Nakatsugawa Station to Magome, which will take about 25 minutes and cost 560 yen.

OCHIAI-JUKU POST TOWN

Another location worth checking out on your way to Magome is the old Ochiai-juku which is the 44th post town along the Nakasendo Trail. Today the trail exists as a beautifully preserved stone path with a single trail that winds itself through a lush green forest, surrounding visitors in tall trees and green plant life. The Honjin is one of the only remaining rest buildings in this post town and is thus registered as an important historical site in Japan. The abundance of nature along Ochiai makes it an excellent place to visit in spring as well as fall, when the autumn colors fill the landscape along its stone path to Magome-juku.

Ochiai-juku is reachable either by bus or on foot. You can take a bus at JR Nakatsugawa Station to Magome and get off the bus at Ochiai, which will take about 10 minutes and cost 250 yen.

NAKATSUGAWA-JUKU POST TOWN

Do not miss the 45th post town near Nakatsugawa Station! Upon your arrival, there are a few places to check out. First is the Nakasendo Historical Museum which houses artifacts from Nakatsugawa's rich history as well as information about the surrounding area. There are also a number of Japanese sweet shops, sake breweries, and historical buildings in the area. Buildings with historical importance will have a small information board that can tell you more about its history.

Nakatsugawa-juku is a quick 10 minute walk from JR Nakatsugawa Station!

NATURE – Naegi Castle Ruins and Tsukechi Gorge

NAEGI CASTLE RUINS

A short distance from Nakatsugawa Station stands the ruins of Naegi Castle constructed 400 years ago and once home to the prominent Toyama Family. In 1871 the buildings were destroyed and today, all that remains are the impressive stone foundations. Although being long gone, there is still quite a lot to see while walking around the castle grounds. Most noticeable are perhaps the large natural stones which served as the foundation of the original castle. This detail is actually quite a unique feature, since many other castles were built on flat planes and the foundations were constructed along with the castle itself. At the top of the complex, visitors can find a well-placed observation tower, which offers an astounding view of the Nakatsugawa landscape as well as Kiso River. Something that is interesting to note about the construction of the observation tower itself is that it was made without the use of nails! In spring, there are plenty of spots for cherry blossom viewing and in fall, the landscape is filled with the colors of autumn.

A nice walk to Naegi Castle Ruins and stop by many other scenic spots along the way, which should take about 1 hour. The hiking map is available at Nakatsugawa Tourist Information Center.

TSUKECHI GORGE

Tsukechi Gorge is without a doubt one of the most naturally beautiful locations in this region but is one of its most hidden gems. Visitors can admire its gorgeous landscape at any time of year. During autumn, the area is filled with beautiful leaves in different shades of red, yellow, and orange and, in winter, there is a good chance that you could see the natural landscape blanketed in pure white snow. In spring, the area is perfect for a relaxing walk while admiring various kinds of flowers. Tsukechi Gorge is also the ideal place to escape the heat during Japan's well known humid summer months. There are a number of cabins and outdoor camping areas which mark popular summer camping destinations for swimming and cooling off. You can witness the gorge's turquoise blue falls and rich nature in any season.

Tsukechi Gorge is accessible by car. Rent a car near JR Nakatsugawa Station then have a pleasant drive north for about 40 minutes and 30 km.
